The Bikinis Rock! We just completed a successful four weekend run of "The Bikinis" at our theater, and our audiences were absolutely delighted. Large groups of women attended (one group of 11 had purchased T-shirts with bikinis printed on them), but the many men in the audience were equally enthralled with the great music, and as one of the cast members' husbands said, "You didn't tell me it was so funny!"

We had audience members hanging around afterward, because they just didn't want it to end. Even though there were only 12 performances, a number of our patrons came back to see it three or four times. "We left the theater absolutely giddy! We've never had so much fun!" "I'm calling for a second set of tickets. My husband needs to see this!" The comments were all superlative accolades.

As a theater company, we liked the fact that the music covers such a wide range of styles and decades. As our local reviewer (The Reader, November 11, 2010) said,

"This musical trip through time reminded me how much pop music was a part of my young life. The four singers give us great solos, great harmonies. A nostalgic show anyone of any age can enjoy."

See you at the theater,
